Teletype Printer Needed for Oblivion

Bulletin
Unofficial reports circulating in Hope say that the Emmet-Preacott link of Interstate 30 will be opened to traffic Nov. 10. The reports are based on conversations with state officials, unconfirmed by the State Highway Commission.

Previously the commission had said this last unfinished stretch of the Interstate in Arkansas would be opened in December, but the latest official report moved the date up to "some time in November."

If the sidewalk report about Nov. 10 is correct, we are only a little more than six weeks away from having Interstate 30 open to Little Rock without a break.

Accustomed as I am to revolutionary technical changes in the equipment which manufactures newspapers—the conventional printer of only 10 years ago would be a lost dog in today's computerized offset newspaper shop—nevertheless I was shocked last week when I discovered that the Teletype printer is no longer being produced.

I saw the Teletype machine come into Arkansas in 1926, and have lived to see it about to go out. It was a miracle invention at the time of its debut. In the early days at the El Dorado Daily News—1923-26—we received the Associated Press report over a Morse code wire filed from Memphis. The click-clack of the receiving machine was amplified by wedging an empty Prince Albert tobacco can behind the instrument—and an Associated Press operator copied the night report on an Underwood typewriter at the rate of about 8,000 words per seven-hour shift.

In 1926 the Associated Press converted to Teletype equipment and set up Arkansas as a separate circuit filed from Little Rock. One operator transmitted manually from Little Rock and Teletype machines reproduced the words automatically in every AP-leased-wire newspaper office in the state. The Teletype circuit was marvelously fast—25,000 words a shift compared with 8,000 for the Morse wire.

Newspapers still use the Teletype machine but only as a monitor, to tell the news room what is coming into the shop in automatic perforated tape. The tape is run through our two computerized Compugraphic phototypesetters at the rate of 12,000 words an hour—or 84,000 words in a seven-hour shift. Actually we publish only a third of the machines' capacity, about 30,000 words daily of mixed wire and local news. Two Fairchild perforators in our shop punch out local news tape which is fed into the Compugraphics between wire "takes."

Where the speed of the pair of Compugraphics comes in is this: The receiving wire machine, called a reperforator (of which we have three, two alternate-use machines and a spare), takes the Associated Press report at a rate of slightly less than 60 words a minute. The evening-paper AP wire is opened by a time switch at 11 o'clock the night before, and by the time the shop opens at 7 a.m. there is a mountain of perforated tape on the floor. The two Compugraphics, running at a combined rate of 12,000 words an hour, "catch up" with the wire between 9 and 10 a.m.—and then Managing Editor George S. Smith begins selecting the top stories of the day, meaning that much of the tape after 9 or 10 a.m. is discarded because of space limitation in a 16-page daily.

The foregoing explains why the Teletype printer is on its way out, being only a monitoring machine that is bypassed by the tape machines in the shop in producing the

3 American pilots wing homeward

New seeds of controversy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three liberated American airmen reached Moscow on their way home today from North Vietnam and found themselves in the center of a struggle between American Embassy officials and U.S. peace advocates who escorted the pilots.

Lt. Mark Gartley and Lt. Norris Charles of the Navy and Maj. Edward Elias of the Air Force arrived on a flight from Peking.

U.S. Charge D'Affaires Adolph Dubs attempted to approach the pilots in the customs area of the airport but was stopped by the escorting delegation of antiwar activists.

Gartley's mother and Charles' wife were in the group.

The Peking-Moscow route apparently was picked to postpone until they reach the United States the moment the pilots, as servicemen on active duty, must return to military jurisdiction. Cora Weiss, cochairman of the accompanying delegation of members of the U.S. Committee for Liaison with Families of Prisoners detained in Vietnam, disclosed the latest Hanoi charge. She said the delegation was told that packages sent prisoners have contained spying devices rigged into such items as cans of milk, candy bars and toothpaste tubes.

The Pentagon called the charge ridiculous. A spokesman, Maj. Gen. Daniel James, said, "I know of no such actions taking place and I think it is just another piece of the propaganda web that Hanoi is spinning to obscure the real facts concerning her intransigent position in refusing to negotiate meaningfully for our prisoners of war."

The spying device charge was first raised with the U.S.

peace group on Sept. 17 by Hoang Tung, editor of the official Communist Party newspaper, Nhan Dan. He said his government was "extremely upset by electronic devices hidden in packages regularly sent prisoners."

Members of the group said they requested evidence, and material was displayed to them Monday shortly before their departure from Hanoi.

Envoy escapes assassination

PHNOM PENH (AP) — A powerful terrorist bomb set ablaze the armored limousine carrying the ranking U.S. diplomat in Cambodia to work this morning, but the envoy escaped unhurt, authorities reported.

Police at first reported two motorcycle policemen escorting the limousine and a civilian were killed in the blast and four Cambodians wounded. But U.S. Embassy sources said later only one policeman was killed and that the other was critically injured. They said doctors offered little hope of saving him.

Thomas O. Enders, 40, the U.S. charge d'affaires, emerged unscathed from the battered wreckage of the car. He was on his way to the American Embassy, where he is in charge while Ambassador Emory C. Swank is on home leave in the United States.

Swank escaped an assassination attempt Sept. 7, 1971. A riderless bicycle bearing a 13-pound plastic bomb concealed among loaves of French bread was sent careening into his limousine. The bomb failed to explode and the bicycle fell harmlessly to the street.

"We feel very deeply for the policemen," Enders said in a brief interview in his office. Otherwise totally unruffled, the diplomat spoke as if escaping assassination attempts were part of his daily routine.

"Not a scratch," he told one caller. U.S. Embassy sources said Enders was inside the car when the blast occurred and climbed out after the engine caught fire. Flames later spread to rest of the car.

Police sources said they believe the bomb was placed aboard a pedicab and that it was detonated by an unknown terrorist on a motorcycle. No further details were available.

The blast was so powerful it blew out windows of neighboring houses and stripped leaves and several branches of trees bordering the boulevard.

Foster homes being sought

Hempstead County Family and Children's Service is searching for foster parents for children in need of a temporary home and substitute parents.

"At present there are only three foster homes in this area," Miss Jennifer Tolleson, Hempstead County Family and Children's Service worker, said, "and we need at least three times that many."

Arkansas Social Services licenses and supervises foster homes and professionally trained social workers are available to assist the foster parents with any special problems that might arise.

"Foster parents not only provide good physical care for the children, but also affection, understanding, and security," Miss Tolleson said, "They open their hearts and their homes to children with problems and strive to approximate family life as it should be."

The rewards of being a foster parent are not monetary, she said although the state does try to reimburse foster parents for their expenses. The monthly boarding rate is for birth to six years $71; for six years to 12 years $76; for 12 years to 15 years $81; and from 15 years to 18 years $86. This is to include board and care, school and personal needs and clothing. The agency pays medical and miscellaneous expenses.

Anyone interested in knowing more about the foster parent program should contact the Hempstead County Social Services office on 102 South Elm St. The phone number is 777-2675.

The waiting game

A carnival worker has plenty of night life in an endless string of different towns. But for the most part, their lot is spent playing the waiting game — like this employee of Sonny Myers Amusement Shows who is manning an empty ferris wheel at the Third District Livestock Show. Tomorrow the Star will feature some of the carnival workers in a picture page layout.

VN fund question reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of cutting off the money for U.S. participation in the Vietnam war are ready to give up for the year after suffering a reversal in the Senate.

"The next vote comes on Nov. 7 when the people will decide," Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said after the Senate voted 45 to 42 Tuesday to strip an "end-the-war" amendment from the foreign-military-aid authorization bill.

Cranston, a leader of Democratic antiwar strategists in the Senate, told a reporter he referred to congressional elections as well as the presidential election.

The Senate tally reversed two previous roll calls by which the Senate voted 50 to 44 on July 24 and 49 to 47 on Aug. 2 to adopt similar amendments to cut off funds for U.S. military operations in Indochina in four months, conditioned on release of American prisoners of war by North Vietnam.

Cranston attributed the reversal to absenteeism. Six antiwar members and four opponents of the fund cutoff weren't there.

The only switch from the previous vote was Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who voted Tuesday for the motion by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., to strike the troop-withdrawal requirement from the bill.

Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Senate he believes President Nixon has been doing all he can as "head of a self-respecting nation" to bring the Vietnam war to an end.

Floor debate on welfare bill set today, fate is uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Working against a deadline, the Senate opens floor debate today on the hotly disputed welfare-reform legislation, a gigantic bill sweetened with Social Security increases.

The fate of the $14.6-billion legislation is highly uncertain because prolonged debate over its controversial provisions would thwart congressmen's hopes for adjournment by Oct. 1.

But the bill also contains many Social Security and Medicare benefits which its sponsors consider highly popular in election year.

An effort will be made to rescue these benefit provisions in some fashion if the full bill cannot be passed.

The 889-page bill has been nearly two years in the making. It passed the House in June a year ago and has been stuck since that time in the Senate Finance Committee.

Senate Democratic Leader

Mike Mansfield has called the bill to the floor despite the lateness in the session to fulfill his pledge that President Nixon's top-priority proposals would be given consideration.

As the bill was submitted by the President and passed by the House, it contained his proposals to change the system of providing public assistance for families with dependent children.

The Senate Finance Committee, however, rejected the Nixon plan and substituted its own Workfare system which would impose much tougher work requirements on parents in the welfare families.

This dispute is expected to dominate the Senate debate.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the bill, predicted that all the provisions except those on the welfare families could pass in a few days.

The Social Security provisions in the bill would give special benefits to widows, the disabled, men, persons who work beyond 65 and other groups.

The legislation would expand Part A of Medicare, which is financed by Social Security, to give coverage to 1.5 million persons who now receive Social Security disability payments and to include payment for drugs needed by chronically ill aged persons.

Social Security taxes would be raised about $6 billion a year to pay for these new benefits.

Nixon's family-assistance plan would fix a minimum $2,400 annual income for a family of four and, for the first time, provide payments for the wor-kling poor.

The Finance Committee's Workfare plan would remove from the welfare rolls families whose children were in school and require the parents to take jobs with a federal corporation in order to receive any income from the government.

North Vietnam battered by American warplanes Tuesday

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of American warplanes battered North Vietnam Tuesday, striking the heaviest blows at the big Yen Bai air base midway between Hanoi and the Chinese border and knocking out two MIG21 fighters on the ground, the U.S. Command announced today.

North Vietnam reported that it suffered heavy civilian casualties and extensive damage in the raids Tuesday and claimed they ranged from the demilitarized zone northward to the Chinese border.

A broadcast by Radio Hanoi said there were several hundred civilian casualties, that bombs hit two schools in Hoa Binh and Nghe An provinces south of Hanoi, and that many homes were destroyed or damaged.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command declined comment on the North Vietnamese charges, as has been the practice of the command.

A communique from the U.S. Command said more than 300 tactical strikes were carried out across North Vietnam on Tuesday, and many of them were both to the south and north of Hanoi. Other main targets included military barracks and supply depots, the command said.

There were no planes reported lost in North Vietnam, but in South Vietnam a Navy F8 taking off on a mission from Da Nang crashed after a mechanical failure, killing the pilot, spokesmen said.

For the second successive day, U.S. B52 bombing raids across South Vietnam were curtailed to less than half of the normal 100 strikes every 24 hours.

Instead, the bombers were again diverted across the border into eastern Cambodia to attack North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps. Reports said as many as 50 B52 bombers struck in Cambodia in efforts to forestall a new wave of attacks anticipated in South Vietnam's 3rd Military Region. This region includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

The U.S. Command can spare the B52 strikes for Cambodia because of the low level of fighting in South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces, however, kept up their harassing attacks along South Vietnam's northern coast.

The main north-south Highway 1 just above Da Nang was closed for the second successive day after saboteurs blew up two more culverts. One had been blown up Tuesday and repaired.

Seventy-five miles south of Da Nang, government forces reopened a 15-mile stretch of Highway 1 from Quang Ngai City to the district town of Mo Duc, according to Col. Tran Van Nhut.

Mankiewicz, Safire provide 'fire' for NBC Reports show

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been slightly less than three years since Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's accusation that many network television reporters were biased against President Nixon.

On a special edition of "NBC Reports" Tuesday night, it appeared that the question of bias has shifted to one of fairness in this presidential election year.

This time the gripes didn't come from Agnew or another administration spokesmen; they came from Frank Mankiewicz, chief strategist for Sen. George McGovern's campaign.

Mankiewicz claimed that television coverage of the South Dakota Democrat had been unfair by being, among other things, overly anxious to get administration reaction to McGovern's campaign speeches.

On the same show, a top Nixon aide, William Safire, insisted the media in general "is trying to be straight and fair" in covering the campaign.

Other panelists offered their views, but the mini-debate between Safire and Mankiewicz was the real show.

Their skirmish left the impression that the GOP, for a change, is generally satisfied with media coverage on the campaign while the Democrats have grown extremely unhappy.

Helen Help Us!

HELEN BOTTEL

Her Fault She's Childless?

DEAR HELEN: Before we met each other, my husband became an alleged unwed father. He didn't claim the boy at first, but the mother kept writing and sending pictures. The first six months of our marriage, this caused many fights between us. Then she got married and I thought my troubles were over. But no! I find that he has kept some of the pictures of his "son," and lately (since I've been trying to get pregnant), he kids me about it, saying it couldn't be HIS fault I don't conceive because he's already proved himself.

I've been off the pill four months with no luck, and his words are like a knife twisted in my side. If I try to tell him, I know I'll say it wrong and he'll think I'm still holding a grudge. If it's my fault we can't have children, couldn't he at least be kind? I'm not in the mood for being KIDDED.

First: let's knock down your defeatism: My doctor tell me that a six-months wait (for pregnancy) is quite normal when a woman goes off the Pill, especially if she has been on it several years. Hormonal adjustment takes a while. Stop worrying!

Second: Sensitivity to purely female reactions isn't man's outstanding trait. If your husband doesn't know how his kidding hurts—tell him, but not in anger. A few tears may do the trick.—H.

DEAR HELEN: Several years ago when I was dating Bill, he told me he was "safe," due to a vasectomy. I didn't experiment. He wasn't exactly the guy for me. Later, however, I heard another girl blame "the other man" because Bill assured her it couldn't be HIS baby.

Bill came back to town with his wife the other day, and I ran into them. They have been married a year and she is very pregnant. Both seemed thrilled about their coming baby. He was every inch an expectant father.

Two questions: Can a vasectomy be reversed or

Who says needlework is old stuff?

Fair competition accents youth

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. — (NEA) — Who's home sewing?

Practically everybody. If the needlework exhibition at the Orange County Fair is any indication. Ponytailed youngsters, teen-agers in embroidered jeans, young mothers and mothers-to-be, matrons, grandmothers and even a few boys showed their handiwork this summer in the whitewashed, barnlike hall of this 132-year-old county fair in the foothills of the Catskills.

Entries in the needlework competition were up dramatically from last year. Mrs. Hazel Tremper, who has presided as superintendent of this division for the past 30 years, was frankly astonished.

"Usually, there are 400 to 500 entries. Last year, there were 668. This year, there are over 1,000—1,064, to be exact. I can't find enough display space!"

Every conceivable needlework item was represented—from afghans to aprons, ponchos to pinafores, bedspreads to baby dolls. The colorful entries jampacked the old-fashioned display cases, flowed over beams and rafters, ladders and saw-buck tables. The baked goods display, normally entitled to half the hall, was backed into a third its former space.

The three judges worked in three main categories: sewing, knitting and crocheting, and needlework. They judged nonstop from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, awarding traditional blue, red and yellow ribbons, honorable mentions, junior achievements, best-of-divisions, and finally the splendid gold best-of-show ribbon.

In her 30-year tenure, Mrs. Tremper has developed a pretty solid perspective on who is sewing what, and has decided that it's time to rearrange and change some of the time-honored categories.

"We've got to expand the junior division," she declared, pointing to a toppling stack of bright vests, ponchos and shrinks created by junior needleworkers. "And next year, we'll have two new categories—one for embroidered or decorated blue jeans, and one for machine embroidery. And we'll put all the Christmas entries in one division—we used to have so many entries that we set up separate categories for ornaments, table linens, household items and so forth, but no one seems to be doing much Christmas stitching these days."

Recently added categories

include framed and embroidered pictures and hooked rugs.

"We're going to drop aprons," Mrs. Tremper remarked. "There were only a few entries, and none were good enough for even an honorable mention."

The knitters and crocheters showed the most needleworking skill, the freshest color combinations, the newest fashions and the most imagination—quite possibly because this category had the highest percentage of younger competitors.

The sewing category was disappointing, full of lumpy buttonholes, mismatched plaids and sleazy fabrics. Part of the problem may have been the difficulty of obtaining good fabrics through local outlets, and it certainly pointed up the impossibility of achieving superior results with inferior fabrics. The needlework division had loads more crevel and many fewer crocheted doilies.

Despite the surge in junior entries, a seasoned hand took the best-of-show award—cheery, white-haired Mrs. Nellie Baker of Middletown won the coveted gold ribbon for her meticulously crocheted ripple afghan in autumn shades.

Several other entries were memorable. One was an afghan with an embroidered motif in each of its 24 squares representing an item or event in family history. Another was a magnificent crazy quilt constructed of multicolored fabric scraps accented by lace, purchased trimming and oddments of whimsical hand embroidery wherever there was room.

In the toy category, a regal Humpty Dumpty and a handsome brown Teddy bear were topped by an incredibly appealing mother-and-baby set made of an old, worn, brown, soft and shaggy coat lining. They had button eyes, floppy ears, gingham neckties, and a please-take-me-home look. The judges awarded a top prize to this pair, but the photographer said he couldn't get a good shot of them—they were lovable but unphotographable. So it goes.

A county fair is a carry-over from an earlier America, rich in traditions which no one would want to see lost. But at Orange there is also something new—an increased excitement contributed by younger participants which is bringing new vitality into dusty exhibit halls.

National League dominates NEA 1972 All-Major League Team

By RALPH NOVAK
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Those baseball fans who are believers in the superiority of the National League have some new ammunition:

For the third year in a row, National League players dominate the All-Major League team chosen by the 600 players in both leagues in a poll conducted by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The National League held a 6-4 advantage in 1970 and a 7-3 edge in 1971 but this year only two American Leaguers — Dick Allen and Sparky Lyle — kept the Nationals from sweeping all 10 positions.

Cesar Cedeno, the Houston Astros' flashy center fielder, was the leading vote-getter in the sixth annual NEA poll, earning a spot on 90 per cent of the players' ballots. Allen, who led the Chicago White Sox back into pennant contention this season after spending the first nine years of his career in the National League, placed second with 88 per cent.

There were only two repeaters from the 1971 NEA All-Major League Team, left fielder Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates and third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis. And only two other players on the 1972 squad had been named to the team previously. Billy Williams of the Cubs in 1970 and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati in both 1969 and 1970.

The voting by positions:
First base: During his stormy National League days, Allen was called Rich, and a lot of other things that weren't very complimentary. This year he has been called Dick and the best thing to hit Chicago since Lake Michigan. He made the White Sox one of baseball's most exciting teams and was making a serious threat to lead the league in homers,

LINEMAN-OF-WEEK
IS NAMED BY AP

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — John Skorupan makes it sound easy to make 17 tackles unassisted, sack the quarterback three times and return an intercepted pass for a touchdown.
Skorupan, the Penn State linebacker, was selected National College Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press for his performance last Saturday in a 21-10 victory over Navy.

"I didn't do anything special," Skorupan insists. "I just had the opportunities. They ran a few sweeps my way. The opportunities were just there."

It wasn't as simple as the 210-pound senior linebacker would have you believe.

Navy Coach Rick Forzano didn't know Skorupan's name, but he had his fill of No. 81, the linebacker's uniform number.

"No. 81 is super," raved Forzano. "It takes three guys to block that guy. He seemed to be in on every tackle. He's an All-American if I ever saw one. He made more tackles than my whole team."

Forzano added prophetically "If that performance doesn't get No. 81 a Lineman of the Week award I don't know."

Penn State, a four-touchdown favorite against Navy, was hanging on to a 14-10 lead late in the fourth period when the 6-foot-2 Skorupan, from Beaver, Pa., and tackle Jim Heller dropped Middle quarterback Fred Stuek for an 11-yard loss. It killed the last Navy threat.

Then, with 1:18 left, Skorupan intercepted a pass and ran 32 yards for the insurance touchdown.

Hogs work on kicking game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday his Arkansas Razorbacks were improving.

"There's no a player on this team that won't tell you that we're a better football team than we were one or two weeks ago," Broyles said. "We're trying to get better everyday."

The Razorbacks worked on their kicking game again Tuesday, and the defense concentrated on the passing attack of Tulsa, which plays Arkansas here Saturday.

Fullback Mike Saint, who missed last week's game because of a sprained toe, returned to practice Tuesday.

Razorback facts:

Hogs battle Tulsa Saturday

Arkansas plays its first game of the 1972 season in Fayetteville against the University of Tulsa. Kickoff is set for 2:00 p.m.

The Razorbacks have won one and lost one, and Tulsa has a 1-2 record.

Ark	Team	Opp

24	Oklahoma State (lr)	23

Ut	Team	Opp
13	Kan. State	21

0	Houston	21

Arkansas has won 44, lost 16, and tied three games against Missouri Valley Conference competition.

Saturday's game is the second of four straight contests against Southwest Conference competition for Tulsa. The Golden Hurricane lost to Houston, the newest member of the league, 21-0 last week, and they travel to Arkansas this Saturday. TCU will travel to Tulsa next week, and the Golden Hurricane visits Texas Tech the following Saturday.

Frank Broyles-coached Arkansas teams have won 11 and lost three against Tulsa in the past 14 games.

Tulsa Coach Claude (Hoot) Gibson is 1-1 against the Razorbacks.

Tulsa's longest winning streak has been five games, beginning with its 40-7 victory in 1942 and continuing through the 14-13 win in 1946. The Golden Hurricane's widest margin was in 1943, 61-0. Arkansas' longest streak has been eight games, starting with the 28-0 victory in 1959 (Broyles' second season) and extending through the 27-0 win in 1968. The Razorbacks 55-0 decision in 1969 has been their most decisive.

Tulsa and Arkansas have played continuously since 1933, with the exception of 1956. The Razorbacks have won 26, lost 11 and there have been two ties in the past 39 games. Arkansas has won 15 of the past 18 games between these two teams.

Since 1953, each of the games in this series has been played in Fayetteville and the Razorbacks have won 15 of the 18 contests. However, from 1925 until 1947 (the teams did not play in 1927, 28, 29, 31 and 32), each game was played in Tulsa. And from 1934 through 1953, it was played on Thanksgiving day or the Saturday following that holiday. Tulsa leads the series on its home field with ten wins against eight losses and the Razorbacks have won both Little Rock games. Tulsa has won one game and there was one tie in Muskogee.

Tulsa defeated Arkansas, 21-20, last year at Razorback Stadium. The contest was two games in one. The Razorbacks built a 20-0 lead in the first half, but Tulsa exploded for 21 points in the fourth quarter to earn the victory.

Arkansas had a balanced attack in its 24-23 victory over Oklahoma State. The Razorbacks gained 405 yards total offense, 215 rushing and 190 passing, in 89 plays. The Cowboys had 393 yards in 68 rushing and passing plays. Arkansas had 25 first downs, 15 rushing and 10 passing, and Oklahoma State had 16.

Tailback Dickey Morton gained 132 yards in 26 carries for a 5.1 average. It was the fourth game the junior had exceeded the 100-yard game standard, he gained 146 in 13 attempts against North Texas, 133 in 17 carries at Baylor, and 123 in 14 rushes vs TCU last year.

Arkansas escaped with a win when Oklahoma State kicker Eddie Garrett's final extra point attempt hit the right goal post and bounced away wide. However, the Cowboys received the positive bounce on Garrett's 40-yard field goal which gave Oklahoma State a 3-0 lead, it hit the left goal post but went through the scoring plane.

Arkansas' placement kicking was much improved against Oklahoma State. Andy Bolton consistently kicked into the end zone on kickoffs, and freshman Mike Kirkland kicked three of three extra points and a 40-yard field goal. Kirkland missed a 28-yard attempt after a bobbled snap. Bolton had four kickoffs in the third quarter.

Arkansas' 89 total offense plays ranked fourth on the all-time Razorback list, and the 59 rushing attempts equaled the sixth best against Baylor last year.

Oklahoma State Completed only two passes in nine attempts against the Razorbacks, the first was a 14-yard touchdown and the other a 36-yard score.

Oklahoma State's 343 yards rushing was the fifth largest net by a Razorback opponent, and quarterback Brent Blackman's 140 yards on the ground was seventh best. Only Jim Bertleson's 189 steps in 1970 and Chris Gilbert's 162 yards in 1967 have exceeded Blackman's total against Arkansas since Frank Broyles became coach in 1958. Bertleson and Gilbert had 30 and 38 carries respectively, Blackman had 19 attempts. Bertleson and Gilbert each represented Texas.

Arkansas' 17 points in the third quarter against Oklahoma State were the most it had tallied in a single period since the North Texas contest last year.

Pirates down Phillies 5-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roberto Clemente would dearly love to get his 3,000th major league hit in Pittsburgh. But the Pirates' Steve Blass isn't too concerned where he gets his 20th victory or, for that matter, whether he gets it at all.

"Either I do or I don't," Blass said Tuesday night after winning his 19th of the season, scattering eight hits as the Pirates beat Philadelphia 5-1.

"I certainly want 20," said Blass, who would become the first Pittsburgh hurler to reach that plateau since Vernon Law did it in 1960. Then he added, "But I'm not going to worry about it."

Blass will have one more regular season start. Then he'll rest until the start of the National League playoffs against Cincinnati.

It's likely that Blass will face Cincinnati's Don Gullett in the first playoff game Oct. 7. Unlike Blass Tuesday night, Gullett had his problems as the Atlanta Braves ripped him for 10 hits and handed him his 10th defeat, 10-9.

In other National League games, the New York Mets downed the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1. The Chicago Cubs blanked Montreal 6-0. San Francisco beat Houston 5-2 and Los Angeles beat San Diego 7-3.

Clemente picked up a pair of singles against the Phillies to raise his major league hit total to 2,996, putting him just four short of a lofty mark reached by only eight other players in the history of the game.

Pittsburgh has two more games in Philadelphia before returning home to face New York and Pirates Manager Bill Virdon announced right after that game that, if Clemente reached 2,999, he'd be benched until the start of the series with the Mets.

"We'd like him to get 3,000 at home," Virdon said—and Clemente echoed the sentiment.

"That's what I want," Roberto said. "I play all my big hit games there."

The Bucs bunched all their runs against the Phils in the sixth inning. Al Oliver doubled in two, Manny Sanguillen singled for two more and Blass singled for the final run.

Ralph Garr, Dusty Baker and Earl Williams drove in two runs apiece for the Braves, who

The decisive run, however, came in the top of the ninth inning on Larvell Blanks' sacrifice fly.

Baker hit his 17th homer while Hank Aaron hit his 32nd, the 671st of his career, putting him 43 short of Babe Ruth's alltime record. Those homers countered two by the Reds' Hohnny Bench, who leads the majors with 39 homers and 121 runs batted in. Pete Rose added three RBI to Bench's four in the game as Cincinnati stroked 14.

Bob Foster is still the champ

LONDON (AP) — With sweat still dripping from his brow after his successful light-heavyweight title defense Tuesday night against Chris Finnegan of England, champion Bob Foster pencilled in his next two dates which could be in the same ring.

The first, yet to be finalized, will be against Muhammad Ali over 12 rounds in November. The second will be a return against the left-handed Finnegan, "who gave me my hardest title fight ever," as Foster admitted later in his dressing room.

London promoter Jarvis Astaire was confident Tuesday of getting the fight with Ali for the same Wembley ring, with satellite television screening for the United States.

But Robert Arum, the lawyer who looks after Ali's interests, thought Las Vegas or Detroit might get the fight.

Foster, 33, had a hard fight for his $109,000 purse against the 28-year old British, Commonwealth and European champion.

"He was tough, brave, and a good boxer, and a left-hander as well," said a weary Foster. "He went 14 tough rounds with me, and that's gotta be the best."

Finnegan, Olympic gold medalist as a middleweight at the 1968 Games in Mexico City, had been given little chance against the hard-hitting champion, making the 11th defense of his title.

"But he hurt me with a shot to the body," said Foster. "I kept forgetting he was a left-hander. I'm glad he couldn't punch as hard as I can punch."

Finnegan never showed a disinclination to mix it with the champion, not even after being knocked down for a count of eight in the 10th round from a right.

Then Foster, sparked by angry words from his seconds, connected with the payoff punch, a right in the 14th round.

It sent Finnegan onto the bottom rope and he was still out when his seconds took him to his corner.

"I wasn't hurt," he said later, "just knocked clean cold."

"He was tough, brave, and a good boxer, and a left-hander as well," said a weary Foster. "He went 14 tough rounds with me, and that's gotta be the best."

Punt, Pass and Kick registration continues

Registration for the 1972 Punt, Pass and Kick Competition, slated for Saturday, Sept. 30, and sponsored locally by the Hope Auto Co. continue to roll in.

The contest is for boys ages eight through 13 and it winds up with final eliminations at the NFL Pro Bowl Game in Dallas, Texas, January 21, 1973. If you can kick, pass or punt a football and meet the age requirements, you will want to compete.

Participants compete only against boys their own age. Any boy, eight through 13 years of age may register to compete at a participating Ford Dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Boys, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register for PP&K at any participating Ford Dealer.

What makes Duane not run?

By JOAN RYAN

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "Duuuuuaane!" That is the cry from the San Diego Chargers as football-crazed Americans settle down in front of the tube for yet another National Football League season. And it is the most pitiful cry since child movie actor Brandon de Wilde twisted up his cherubic face and sprinted down the trail after Alan Ladd, yelling, "Shaaaane! Come back, Shane!"

Duane Thomas, the enigmatic all-pro running back of the Dallas Cowboys, was dealt to the Chargers over the summer in a no-refund, all-sales-final trade. In Dallas they could relax because now the problem of breaking Thomas to the bit fell into the hands of the new San Diego coach Harland Svare.

Football's inner circle and the sporting press have been busy for two years trying to figure out what makes Duane not want to run.

But if one studies this sports page scenario more carefully he will see that Thomas is just part of a bigger drama. He is, in his own laconic way, spokesman for a new breed. This, it seems to me, is the era of the rebel athlete.

Furthermore, I think if you look closely at TV this fall you can see it. The happy locks hanging out from under the helmets. The "soul slaps" that both black and white players exchange in moments of success. The casual airs the younger players affect in pre-game interviews.

Football players today don't consider themselves part of the U.S. Army," Steve Kiner told me. "They consider themselves artists. There had better be a good reason for bedchecks, curfews, no-sex edicts and rules against long hair. But there aren't any good reasons for these rules."

Kiner, 25, is the former University of Tennessee All-America linebacker, who in three years has flubbed trials with the Dallas Cowboys, the New England Patriots, Miami Dolphins and Washington Redskins. Kiner forthrightly admits he had a drug problem. He also is close to Thomas. They were roommates at Dallas.

"I love football," Kiner says. "So does Thomas. He wants to play but can't take the hassles. There are a lot of players in the NFL who feel the way we do. I do not think Duane will play the way he really can play until he finds some coach who relates to him."

Coming off the college campus today is an athlete who resembles the football player of 20 years ago in physique only, and even then today's jock tends to be larger and quicker.

He is also smarter. He has taken part in social protest. He is an activist. He avoids the football hero role and these kids today don't accept many jock heroes, anyway. After four years on the campus our modern athlete is well schooled on how to thumb his nose at the "establishment."

And he can sense — or thinks he can sense — hypocrisy and avarice like a shark smells blood. He is not about to be used, or "ripped-off," to use a with-it phrase.

Now, on the other side we have our establishment. The team owner who lives to be a "winner." The coach who thinks discipline is a shave and a haircut. The NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, who, in a rare burst of candor, told a sports editor I know, "I recognize that today's athlete is different but there is one common denominator. Money."

Well, yes and no. Thomas' problems with Dallas began, according to Kiner, because Duane thought he was being ripped off financially. Duane said the Cowboys reneged on promises. In this sense you can say that Thomas does have a price for conformity, as Rozelle intimates.

Eventually the whole thing for Thomas got to be a hassle, another word, which translated means roughly that somebody is fooling around with your principles. Whereas the football player of yesteryear seemed to get by on blind faith that the coach was infallible, today's player will have his dignity to go with his fat contract.

Well, it seems to me that pretty soon we're going to have a showdown here between the rebels and the old-liners, the owners and the coaches. Who will prevail? Nobody, if the coaches refuse to relate, as Thomas' posture suggests, and if the rebels continue to ignore the fact that athletic fulfillment in the team game of football somehow transcends a few basic "hassles."

Let's get the confrontation behind us and let's get on with football. "Duuuuuaane!"

Silent spokesman for rebel athletes.

Namath is NFL "Player of the Week"

NEW YORK (AP) — "With Joe we always have the threat of a sudden touchdown," said Weeb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets.

You couldn't get much more sudden than Joe Namath's touchdowns last Sunday. The Jets' rifle-armed quarterback fired a total of six scoring strikes—including three within a 14-minute span—and amassed 496 yards passing as New York shredded Baltimore's vaunted defense and beat the Colts 44-34.

Namath's remarkable performance—his touchdown total was one shy of the National Football League record and the most by a quarterback in a decade and his yardage was the third highest in league history—earned him selection Tuesday as the NFL's Offensive Player of the Week.

Despite his scintillating effort, Namath wasn't overly impressed with himself.

"I know it sounds dumb," said the usually outspoken signal-caller, "but I've had better days throwing the ball."

Not professionally nor during his collegiate days at Alabama. "I don't think I've ever thrown that many in one game before. Maybe I have, but it was way back on Sixth Street in Beaver Falls," quipped Namath, who was born in Beaver Falls, Pa.

Longhorns begin quest for 5th conference title

NEW YORK (AP) — Is Texas Tech for real or is this the real Texas?

The answer will come in Lubbock Saturday night when the Texas Longhorns, unimpressive in their opening game, begin their quest for a fifth consecutive Southwest Conference championship against the Red Raiders of Texas Tech, who were most impressive in whumping Utah 45-3 and New Mexico 41-16.

"We didn't play a poised, polished game," said Darrell Royal after Texas' 23-10 triumph over Miami, Fla. "I was pleased with the effort and I'm delighted with the win, but I'm really concerned about the kind of football team we have."

So is Tech's Jim Carlen. "Texas," he said, "is a solid club in virtually every area and I think their offensive line is the strongest we've seen since we've been here. But we're a relaxed team and we're looking forward to playing Texas. We know most of their team because we tried to recruit them."

The longshot is tempting, but the Longhorns are the champs until someone proves otherwise. Texas.

Tulane at Michigan—Can Tulane do to Michigan what it did to Georgia? Green Wave turns blue. Michigan.

West Virginia at Stanford—In the immortal words of Satchel Paige, "Don't look back; someone may be gaining on you." Sometimes, it's worse to look ahead, which Stanford might be doing to next week's clash with Southern Cal. Ergo ... West Virginia.

Purdue at Notre Dame—

"You can't assess a team on one game," says Northwestern's Alex Agase, a 37-0 loser to Notre Dame, "but Notre Dame is always good and it's a question if they are going to be great." Purdue will be out for blood following last year's fourth-quarter 8-7 loss and two tough losses this season to Bowling Green and Washington. Do Boilermakers have blood? Notre Dame. Tennessee vs. Auburn at Birmingham—Bill Battle has lost three games in two years at Tennessee.

Scott returns to haunt Red Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Scott helped the Boston Red Sox win a pennant in 1967. He could help them lose one in 1972.

The former Boston slugger, traded to the Milwaukee Brewers last winter, returned Tuesday night to haunt the Red Sox in the midst of their tense American League East baseball race.

After hitting a two-run homer that helped the Brewers to a 4-4 victory over the Sox, Scott said, "If I say I'm not fired up playing here, I'd be telling a lie. After all, I played here for six years, and I have a lot of friends here."

The defeat cut Boston's lead in the East to a mere half game over Detroit and kept the four-team race in an extremely nervous state.

The Tigers and the New York Yankees, both idle Tuesday night, gained ground on the Red Sox. The Yankees are within 3 1/2 games of Boston and are tied with Baltimore, after the Orioles lost to Cleveland 3-2 Tuesday night.

In other American League games, the Kansas City Royals stopped the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and three California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 3-1. Rain washed out a scheduled doubleheader between Minnesota and Oakland.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 6, Philadelphia 1; Chicago 6, Montreal 0; Atlanta 10, Cincinnati 9; San Francisco 5, Houston 3; New York 3, St. Louis 1 and Los Angeles 7, San Diego 3.

The Red Sox were unable to hold a 4-0 lead built on early two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and pitcher Marty Pattin. The Brewers finally caught up in the eighth after getting a run in the fifth on Johnny Briggs' homer and one in the sixth on Ellis Rodriguez' run scoring hit.

Brock Davis touched off Milwaukee's winning rally with a bunt single and eventually came around with the first run on Rodriguez' sacrifice fly.

Chris Chambliss and Ray Fosse hit consecutive home runs in the fourth inning to lead Cleveland over Baltimore, dealing the Orioles their 32nd one-run defeat of the year.

Chambliss also singled home a Cleveland run in the sixth.

The Orioles scored a run in the fifth on singles by Johnny Oates and Don Buford and a sacrifice fly by Boovy Grichmeyer scored their second run on Oates' ninth-inning homer.

Cheyunski is AP's 'Player of the Week'

NEW YORK (AP) — "I thought before the game," New England's Jim Cheyunski said, "that the team seemed to be down. A win like this will get everybody keyed up again."

Cheyunski helped to get the Patriots keyed up. The middle linebacker made 11 unassisted tackles and helped out on seven others to hold favored Atlanta at bay. And it paid off with a 21-20 victory by the Patriots.

His outstanding performance against the high-powered Falcons, conducted despite a cast up to his elbow to protect a broken right hand, earned Cheyunski the selection today as The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League. Also nominated were linebacker Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears and defensive end Verlon Biggs of the Washington Redskins.

Butkus was in on 15 tackles that helped the Bears pull out a 13-13 tie against the heavily favored Los Angeles Rams. Biggs blocked a field goal attempt which Mike Bass scooped up and returned for a touchdown and, among his tackles, sacked the St. Louis quarterbacks twice as the 'Skins beat the Cardinals 24-10.

Cheyunski broke his hand in the Patriots' final exhibition game against Detroit.

Work of area artists on display at fair

Where do actors have to go to tone up muscles?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Where do actors go to tone up their muscles? "The Hollywood Television Theatre."

"You know, actors are in a sense like athletes," said Norman Lloyd, producer of this series for KCET-TV and the Public Broadcasting System. He also is an actor and director.

"They've got to stretch once in a while. An actor can grow stale in a bad part. Actors grow stale, generally, because there's no demand on them."

Performers do find themselves stretching and reaching for new dimensions of their skills in this series. Since its debut with the Emmy-winning "Andersonville Trial" in May 1970, the show has presented some of the finest drama on television.

"The Hollywood Television Theatre" opens its new season Monday, Oct. 2, with Lillian Hellman's "Another Part of the Forest," starring Barry Sullivan, Dorothy McGuire, Tiffany Bolling, Andrew Prine and Robert Foxworth.

"People come to us because they know we're working on the highest level," Lloyd said.

Performers reporting for rehearsal find a change from the hurry-up pace of series television. Lloyd said, "At various stages after three days of rehearsal they're ready to shoot. That's the way they're used to working. But we've got three weeks of rehearsal and six days of taping left."

"Then, after they've been in it a while, they wish they had more time. They really dig what they're doing. Doing it over and over again the actor finds new facets in the character."

The actors work for scale, which at $250 a week is only a fraction of what they could earn in a movie or television role. Nevertheless, the actors are said to be eager for the meaty parts. Lloyd made his professional bow as an actor in 1932 and later helped Orson Welles and John Houseman found the Mercury Theatre. He came to Hollywood in 1940 to play the title role in Alfred Hitchcock's "Saboteur" and appeared in a number of other films.

Between Broadway commitments, Lloyd directed five episodes on Lincoln by James Agee for CBS's "Omnibus" and then spent five years as a director and producer of "Alfred Hitchcock Presents." He produced a number of television movies, the Tony Franciosa segments of "Name of the Game" and last year directed a "Columbo" episode. He turned down a job as a network series producer to stay with "The Hollywood Television Theatre."

Builder of balloons says his course practical--for the 19th century

TOLLAND, Conn. (AP)—Charles E. MacArthur says his adult education course in balloon building is very practical—for the 19th century.

"Its practicality is limited in the 20th," he admits.

However, MacArthur says several persons have expressed an interest in building their own balloons.

"You can do it weekends during the winter in your living room, if you have an understanding wife," the long-time balloon enthusiast says.

MacArthur, who owns a printing plant, has built balloons for sale and teaches short college courses. But the 10-week adult education balloon course he starts Oct. 4 at Tolland High School is his most ambitious teaching effort.

The class will construct a full-sized balloon. Students will start by weaving a basket and then use low-cost materials to make an air bag 30 feet in diameter, he says.

After it has been completed, the balloon will be given a test flight with a nonhuman cargo. The students, however, may get a demonstration ride in the instructor's 85-foot balloon.

For MacArthur, ballooning is part business and part obsession.

"It's a great pleasure to make money this way," says MacArthur.

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb

It's difficult to treat

Is ulcerative colitis curable?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—The two doctors I have consulted about my condition have diagnosed it as ulcerative colitis but seem to know little about treating or curing it. Having this illness at age 47, I understand that it is a quite common disorder. What causes ulcerative colitis and can it be prevented? What treatment or medication can be prescribed for the condition? Can it be cured? Can any treatment or medication prevent colon cancer from developing in relation to this disease? Must I just sit helplessly by while the inevitable cancer starts its development?

Dear Reader—Ulcerative colitis is inflammation of the colon or part of it which results in ulcerated areas in the colon. It frequently causes persistent diarrhea and the passage of mucus and blood, resulting in severe weight loss. Individuals have severe attacks of the disorder, then sometimes they have remissions for rather long times followed by recurrences. I'm sorry to say that there are many theories about the cause of ulcerative colitis but no definite facts that apply to all cases.

It is true that the longer it lasts, the more likely a person is to develop cancer of the colon, but there are many factors that influence the likelihood of this complication. For example, individuals who have involvement only with left colon and the rectal area appear to be less likely to have cancer if they develop it at all. It is also believed that individuals who have this problem for more than 10 years are more likely to develop a cancer. Individuals who have long term remissions are less prone to develop cancer.

As in the case of other diseases, when the cause is not known it is difficult to treat. I would recommend that you stop using milk and all milk products. This seems to help people with this problem. Much of the treatment is symptomatic and has to be individualized for the patient, concerning diet and whether or not antibiotics or hormones such as cortisone or related hormones should be given. In some instances, particularly if there is persistent, massive hemorrhage, perforation or other complications, it is necessary to remove the colon surgically. Fortunately, this represents a relatively small number of individuals. I like to encourage people who have this problem by saying that avoiding milk and milk products and foods which you know irritate your digestive tract, including coffee, plus other drinks containing caffeine and alcohol, and eliminating as much as possible stressful situations in life, much can be done to minimize the problem.

Dear Dr. Lamb—What is Bicillin and what kinds of diseases is it for? I have heard of it quite a lot and was wondering about it. The dose is three million units.

Dear Reader—Bicillin is a trade name for one brand of penicillin used in the treatment of a large number of bacterial infections.

Miss Allen, Mr. Jones say vows in El Dorado

Miss Debra Allen was married to Robert A. Jones in a ceremony performed at 6 p.m. Sept. 2, in the First Baptist Church, Cordell Avenue, El Dorado.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Allen of El Dorado, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jones, Jr. of Hope.

The couple stood under an arch garlanded with gypsophila and flanked by baskets of white daisies and candles burning in seven-branched candelabra to recite their vows. They knelt on a white prayer bench for the blessing.

The bride wore a formal gown of white organza, styled with an empire waist, bishop sleeves, and a softly flared skirt. Silk braid formed a bolero effect on the bodice which was appliqued with re-embroidered flowers of lace and pearls, as were the sleeves and cuffs. The detachable train, edged with braid, was embellished by appliques of lace and pearls also. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis.

Miss Ruby Allen, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of orange brocade polyester, styled with an empire waist, edged with yellow lace flowers with a low neckline and puffed sleeves. She carried a long stemmed yellow rose with yellow streamers. Bridesmaids were attired in full length gowns of orange and yellow brocade polyester styled identically to the maid of honor, and wore little hats of net and velvet ribbon to match their gowns, and carried a long stemmed rose with streamers to match.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Terri Jones, sister of the groom, Miss Janis Smith, Miss Gerald Hill, Miss Mary Snowden, Miss Angela Lockhart, and Miss Debra Wilbert. Flower girls were: Vickie Briggs, niece of the bride, and Jennifer Loggins. Dressed in orange and yellow, they carried white baskets of yellow and white daisies.

Attending the groom were: Donald Allen, Claudis Allen, brother of the bride, Raymond Jordan, Lawrence Hanson, Bobby Wilson, Edward Lacey. Maurice Hopkins was best man.

Candlelighters were: Arnold Briggs, nephew of the bride, and Glen Oliver. Ring bearer, Dedrick Briggs, nephew of the bride. Ushers were Ray Moody and Jerome Harris. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Idell Norwood, organist, Miss Demetria Williams and Miss Pat Jamerson, soloists.

Immediately following the ceremony, the guests were entertained at a reception in fellowship hall.

After a short trip, the couple is at home in Jonesboro, where they are students at Arkansas State. Mrs. Jones is a junior majoring in accounting. Mr. Jones is a junior also, majoring in mathematics.

Relatives attending from Hope were: Mr. and Mrs.

Andrew Jones, Jr.; Mrs. Odessa Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jones, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Terri Jones, Gewndolyn Jones, Charles McGhee of Texarkana and Sandra Jones and Earl Jones, Jr. of Kansas City, Mo.

Let's Reflect

West starts proceedings for the defense by leading the ace and king of diamonds. You ruff the second time and draw trumps with two leads.

Which hand should you win the second trump in?

It all depends on whether or not you want to take the best play for your contract.

There are two important cards held by the enemy, ace of spades and king of clubs. Are they likely to be in the same hand? Not likely at all.

West has opened the bidding. He has shown up with the ace and king of diamonds. He needs one of the other cards for his opening bid. Could he have both of them?

Yes, of course, but in that case East, who has followed to two hearts, will have raised his partner without any card higher than a jack. Therefore it is almost certain that those cards are in different hands. If East holds the king of clubs you can take a club finesse and make an overtrick.

But give West that card and where does a club finesse leave you? In the soup! You lose the club finesse and later on have to lose two spade tricks.

After all this, you should see the winning play. Lead a club toward dummy. If East holds the club king, West will hold the spade ace and later on you will lose just one spade trick.

Actually, West holds the club king. He must play it or lose it. Now you are able to discard two of dummy's spades on your ace and jack of clubs and wind up with the loss of just one spade trick in spite of East holding the ace.

Time on their hands

With nothing much to do in the stock barn except sit back and wait on the judges, a group of youngsters played a made-up game of "flip-the-match-book" on an old truck.

The cop is young. The cop is tough. The cop is a woman.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the briefing room at the East Los Angeles sheriff's station, most of the officers are joking among themselves, waiting for the sergeant to begin. In the middle is a rookie. The others are talking around the young, inexperienced officer.

The briefing begins. There are reports, and inspection will be tomorrow. Someone cracks a dirty joke.

A few of the officers laugh lightly. Not Baker. Then Officers Duffey and Baker leave for their car, Baker hauling a boxful of forms, Duffey a shotgun. Duffey tests the weapon's action expertly, easily. He handles the weapon with confidence.

Baker takes a turn practicing loading and unloading the weapon. A shell falls to the tarmac. "Oh...." says Baker. Hands shake slightly with exertion, concentration, anxiety.

Tough to be a rookie. Tough to be a cop. But the cards are really stacked against Baker. Baker stands 5 feet 4 and weighs 105.

She is 26, the mother of a 6-year-old son, wife of a Los Angeles policeman and a female cop out on the streets of L.A.

"I tried being a housewife and didn't like it," she says.

Nothing new for women to be cops. But for two weeks, 12 Los Angeles County female deputies have teamed with male partners to patrol the streets of Los Angeles. The program is experimental.

Mary Baker has one year to prove her worth on the beat. She totes all the standard gear for a patrolman—gun, Mace, cuffs, everything.

But in a skirt and blouse, with her diminutive size, she cannot be as imposing as the 180-pound deputy she replaced, even though she sports a police sharpshooter medal under her badge.

Duffey speaks frankly about the program, as if Mrs. Baker were not seated two feet to his right in the air-conditioned patrol car, her eyes flitting over the hot streets of East Los Angeles for signs of crime. This is not a beat where police are respected or welcomed. Blank Mexican-American faces stare sullenly as the patrol car glides by.

"I just hope when the time comes, she's there," Duffey says.

"So far, I have no reason to believe that she wouldn't be. We've had a couple of minor situations when she was there and ready to go to work when I needed her."

When asked if that isn't the case every time he starts with a rookie, Duffey admits, "Oh, that's true."

"It's just that when you're with a guy you feel that he's 160, 170, 180 pounds and he's just a little bit more muscle to take care of you in actual physical combat."

To help solve that problem, Mrs. Baker was trained extensively in a non-lethal defense, which she says really meant dirty fighting—"kicking in the right place."

Mrs. Baker says she feels odd in her position, but "I'm enjoying my job."

"I feel really stupid, but I imagine that any rookie who starts out feels that way."

Duffey suddenly steps on the gas as a low-riding car turns at the end of the run-down block. Swinging around the corner, Duffey switches on the flashing lights at the console to his right. Baker has a pencil and pad in hand.

The young Chicano a few feet ahead drives placidly on.

"Chooses to ignore the lights," Duffey says calmly. Baker writes.

Duffey hits the siren briefly; the car ahead turns right and glides to the curb. "No brake lights," says Duffey. Baker writes again.

Duffey slides out of his seat, Baker is out on the right, both move up on the driver, and while Duffey says hello and asks for a license, Baker watches the driver's hands, looking for a weapon.

There is none. She moves back and covers her partner. It is all routine.

The driver looks back curiously at the woman with the badge on her chest and the gun on her hip. He smiles. "If she stopped me, I'd throw a pass at her," he says. "Hey, sweetheart..."

That is known as machismo—very important in East Los Angeles. Women have a place in that area, but they do not do certain things, and one of them is tell a man what to do. Duffey sees that as the chief difficulty for deputy Baker in the coming months. That could be trouble. Looking over the patrol area,

Duffey says, "Out here, it's a game, but a game with very serious consequences. You don't play to lose."

"You gotta come out on top."

Churches attend Choir Day

ARKADELPHIA — Youth choir members from the Calvary and First Baptist Churches of Hope were among the more than 2,000 young singers who came to Ouachita Baptist University Sept. 9 to participate in OBU's second annual "Youth Choir Day."

The big event was termed "tremendously successful" by its co-ordinator, Dr. Ed Coulter, assistant to the president and director of institutional research at Ouachita. Dr. Coulter said that all who were involved in the day's activities co-operated very well in seeing that everything went smoothly. He also praised the people of Arkadelphia for the welcome they gave to the visitors.

Arriving on campus shortly after noon, the mass of young singers was divided into two groups: one rehearsing in Mitchell Auditorium and the other at the Arkadelphia First Baptist Church. They were entertained during practice breaks by the Ouachita-Tones, OBU's popular all-girl vocal group, and by the singing duo of Greg Greenway and Steve Hatfield. Later in the day, the group was served box suppers prepared by the OBU cafeteria staff. Soon after, they were directed to A.U. Williams Field for Ouachita's first football game of the year against Bishop College of Dallas, Texas.

The combined choirs, all of senior high age, quickly acquired "Tiger spirit," as they helped cheer OBU on to a 22-17 victory over Bishop.

At halftime, Dr. Charles Wright, professor of music at Ouachita, directed the singers in arrangements of "Just As I Am," "Everything is Beautiful" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The group was accompanied by the Tiger Band under the direction of Marvin Lawson.

Ray Holcomb, associate professor of church music, also contributed to the success of the performance by directing the rehearsal of the group at First Baptist Church.

Dr. Daniel R. Grant, Ouachita president, said that he "would like to express my appreciation for the support of the churches and the ministers of music in these churches for helping make 'Youth Choir Day' a success."

He added that it was "the kind of event that the young people seem to enjoy" and praised the participants for making it "a real contribution to Ouachita."

FESTIVAL FUZZ
BUXTON, England (AP) — Plainclothes police officers in Derbyshire are in a crash training course — it instructs them in the art of disguise for patrolling pop festivals. The officers dress and act like hippies while mingling with the crowds on pop sites.

"Their job is to keep the peace and to examine the psychology of fans," a spokesman said.

Martha meets Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell, wife of President Nixon's former law partner, former attorney general, and former campaign chief, has surfaced anew as a Republican attention-getter.

Mrs. Mitchell appeared Tuesday night at a Republican fund-raising dinner here addressed by Nixon.

Afterwards, she greeted the President and then, separated from him only by a Nixon aide, stood shaking hands and signing autographs.

Husband John N. Mitchell resigned as director of the Nixon campaign almost three months ago.

PROPOSED INITIATIVE ACT NO. 1

(Proposed by Petition of the People)

To be voted on at the General Election on November 7, 1972

PETITION TO INITIATE A LEGISLATIVE ACT

INITIATIVE PETITION

TO THE HONORABLE KELLY BRYANT, Secretary of State of the State of Arkansas:

We, the undersigned legal voters of the State of Arkansas, respectfully propose the following Legislative Act:

(Popular Name)

ACT TO REPEAL RAILROAD CREW LAWS AND TO PROTECT PRESENT EMPLOYEES

(Ballot Title)

A PROPOSED ACT TO REPEAL LAWS RELATING TO SIZE OF TRAIN AND SWITCH CREWS AND TO PROTECT PRESENT EMPLOYEES AGAINST REDUCTION IN EARNINGS AND LOSS OF EMPLOYMENT

ACT

BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS:

SECTION 1. Act 116, approved March 28, 1907; Act 298, approved May 31, 1909; and Act 67, approved February 20, 1913 are repealed.

SECTION 2. No railroad employee who has seniority in train, engine or yard service in this state on the effective date of this Act shall be discharged, laid off, furloughed or suffer a reduction in earnings by reason of this Act.

And by this, our petition, order that the same be submitted to the people of said state, to the end that the same may be adopted or rejected by the vote of the legal voters of said state at the regular general election to be held in said state on the 7th day of November, 1972, and each of us for himself says: I have personally signed this petition; I am a legal voter of the State of Arkansas and my residence, post office address and voting precinct are correctly written after my name.

Filed in the Office of the Secretary of State: June 21, 1972.

Ford suspends production of engine line

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it has suspended production of a 200-cubic inch engine designed as standard equipment in 1973 Mavericks and will put the engine through another antipollution certification test.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Tuesday refused to certify the engine, one of 12 Ford engine families. The other 11 families passed the federal antipollution standards.

Cars equipped with the six-cylinder engine — Mavericks and some Mercury Comets and Ford Broncos — cannot be sold without EPA certification.

About 1,200 such cars have been shipped to dealers, and about 7,800 more remain at Ford plants, the automaker said.

Tuesday's action was the first time the EPA had refused to certify an engine, and it marked another frustration in Ford's attempts to meet federal standards.

Ford was forced into a rush certification program in May when it discovered that employees had made unauthorized adjustments on test engines.

EDDIE WHITMAN
...conducts spelling bee

Spelling bee at Hope Kiwanis Club

Kiwanian Eddie Whitman had charge of the program at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting.

His program which had been announced as a surprise was that indeed. After his opening remarks, some of which were directed to individual Kiwanians, he said, "Now fellows, we are going to have an old fashioned spelling bee. The ones seated at the table to my right will spell against those seated at the table to my left."

Kiwanians Teddy Jones and Dale Franks served as judges, and though the rules seemed to be made up as the contest progressed, the M.C. was backed up by his judges in the decisions he made.

In a more serious vein Secretary Teddy Jones outlined the new committee structure for all Kiwanis Clubs which will take effect with the administrative year beginning October 1st. This is the first change in many years and divides the work among the following committees: Club Meeting, David Stewart, Chmn; Membership Development, Henry Haynes, Chmn; Youth Services, Dale Franks, Chmn; Citizenship Services, Kenneth Hamilton, Chmn; Sponsored Youth, E.P. Young, Chmn; and Major Emphasis Programs, George Frazier, Chmn.

Treasurer Clifford Franks reported a net profit of $564.00 from the recently held Pancake Supper, all of which will be used for Community Youth Programs and the Golden Age Club.

Rev. Jim Sayers, a newcomer to Hope and Pastor of Garrett Memorial Baptist Church, was the only guest at Tuesday's meeting.

McGovern promises to end bombing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. George McGovern has vowed to force the moral issue of war upon the American conscience, and if he wins the White House, to end "this murderous bombing" within five minutes of his inauguration.

He said he did not expect the normal campaign applause for his account of casualties and of "the most incredible and murderous bombardment in all the history of mankind."

The Democratic presidential nominee invoked the war issue from a platform President Nixon is to occupy tonight.

It was a solemn windup to a campaign Tuesday that had featured the whooping politics of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, bidding for Democratic solidarity at the side of the man who beat him for the presidential nomination.

"I'm going to do everything within my power between now and Nov. 7 to force the American people to examine the serious moral questions that are confronting us because of this barbaric behavior that has been going on in Indochina," McGovern told about 1,000 people at a $250-a-plate fundraising dinner Tuesday night.

In the same Century Plaza Hotel ballroom tonight, Nixon is to address a $1,000-a-ticket Republican campaign dinner.

McGovern drew applause with his pledges to end the war and gain freedom for American prisoners. But when one tentative round of applause rippled through the ballroom after he spoke of civilian casualties, McGovern said:

"I know these things are hard to clap about and I don't expect applause on descriptions of that kind."

After a 14-hour day of vote-hunting in California, the state he said is his top-priority target in the presidential campaign, McGovern spent the night flying back to Washington, ending an 11-state campaign swing.

His final speech was in stark contrast to the exuberance of his rallies with Humphrey at his side.

Humphrey told a labor rally: "What this campaign needs is a good dose of believing, of emotion, of enthusiasm, of spirit, of optimism. We're never going to win anything if we go around with a hang-dog look."

It was Humphrey who turned a twilight rally that filled the courtyard of Fairfax High School, in the Jewish area of Los Angeles, into a sort of responsive reading.

"Four more years, that's what they said in Miami," Humphrey cried.

"No," the crowd roared back. "Let me hear you again," said Humphrey.

"No!"

"You're so right," Humphrey said.

McGovern planned a break from the campaign until Saturday, except for one appearance Thursday before a group of Democratic mayors in Washington. He is due to campaign Saturday in Baltimore.

GEORGE MCGOVERN

Nixon wants to 'finish job'

NEW YORK (AP)—President Nixon, making his biggest campaign-season tour, says he seeks not simply victory but "a victory for America—that's what we're working for."

Nixon, appearing at a $1,000-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner in New York, argued that he must have the opportunity to "finish the job" that was begun with overtures to Moscow and Peking.

The President also held out to voters the prospect that in a second term he would achieve in the domestic arena the triumphs which he claimed for his first 3½ years in the field in foreign policy.

Nixon's remarks were piped by closed-circuit television to GOP dinner audiences in 27 other cities.

In talking about "a victory for America," Nixon said he believes his appeal crosses regional, party and generational lines. He went on: "We've only begun and there's so much left to do."

Looking to the past, and particularly to his ventures into personal diplomacy in China and the Soviet Union, he asserted, "we have changed the world."

Nixon, accompanied by wife Pat, was bound today for California, to address a money-raising GOP luncheon and to inspect the new rapid-transit system in San Francisco.

"The time has come for civilized people to act in concert to remove the threat of terrorism from the world," he said.

Saying some argue that "terror is the last resort of the weak and the oppressed" who seek only political justice, Nixon said, "This is nonsense."

He argued that justice must be achieved through negotiation.

The President's first stop Tuesday was the tiny island on which stands the Statue of Liberty, where by dedicated a federal immigration museum.

Hundreds of persons, most of them schoolchildren and almost all representing ethnic groups, were ferried to the island for the ceremonies.

At least a handful heckled Nixon, however, and were hustled away by federal police who, in some cases, clamped fists over the mouths of those shouting "end the war."

Reported hijacking is a hoax

SINGAPORE (AP) — Police here today after receiving word of an emergency, possibly a hijacking, but it turned out to be a false alarm, the police commissioner reported.

The Australian Civil Aviation Ministry told newsmen in Sydney that crew members had mistakenly hit a button which triggered the alarm on an emergency radio frequency.

The Olympics Airways 707 came here from Australia for a scheduled stop en route to Athens with 31 passengers and a crew of 11.

Some of the passengers left the plane later but were not available for comment.

Olympic Airways is owned by Aristotle Onassis.

FURNITURE EXPORT. JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli furniture exports should reach $3.5 million by the end of 1972, or more than double the foreign sales of previous years, Commerce Ministry officials predict.

'Andy' of 'Amos and Andy' fame dead at age 82

CHICAGO (AP) — "Howdy Amos ... Howdy Andy" — for 32 years those familiar words opened a radio show that captivated millions of Americans.

For addicts of the "Amos and Andy Show," there were also the Kingfish, and Sapphire and Madam Queen. And there were the Beauty Parlor and the Fresh Air Taxicab Co.

But it was the Negro dialect of two white men, Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden, which drew Americans to their sets week in and week out after the show went on network radio in 1929.

On Tuesday, the deep voice

Boyleing it down

NEW YORK (AP) — Did you get a lot done last year?

You did? And feeling pretty complacent about it, too? A lot of people are like that — always patting themselves on the back for the number of things they manage to get done.

You probably wouldn't feel so smug, however, about the list of things you achieved, if you were honest enough to look at the other side of the balance sheet and list the things you didn't do in the previous 12 months.

Without knowing you at all, for example, I'll wager that you — like me — didn't —

Teach Sophia Loreau to eat spaghetti with chopsticks.

Box a compass.

Win an argument with a woman.

Go wadding in a mountain stream with Julie Andrews.

Write a letter to a congressman.

Send a congratulatory telegram to your mother on your birthday.

Take a teen-ager to lunch during National Brotherhood Week.

Find a new secret parking space for your car.

Write something immortal underwater with a pen.

See your dentist twice.

And those are only a few of the things you didn't do. Man, I'll also bet that you didn't —

Sit in the lap of receptionist in your office and cry on her shoulder.

Tell a Polish bartender a new Italian joke.

Do anything for the national ecology except get a summer tan.

Attend three P-TA meetings in a row.

Buy more than one box of Girl Scout cookies.

Learn all the stanzas of the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Read the Bible clear through for the first time in your life.

Inherit a fortune.

When you compare all these things you didn't do with the piddling things you did do, puny man, doesn't it make you feel you kind of wasted your time?

of Correll was silenced by death. Four days after he entered Chicago's Wesley Memorial Hospital in the wake of a heart attack, Correll died. He was 82.

Born in Peoria, Ill., Correll retired in 1960 and lived in Beverly Hills, Calif., a few blocks from Gosden, now 67.

Correll and Gosden met in 1919 as fellow members of an amateur theatrical group touring the South.

They formed a two-man team and toured tent shows in the South, sometimes singing duets.

In 1926, Correll and Gosden started a blackface minstrel show on Chicago's WGN which they called "Sam 'n' Henry."

When they changed stations in 1928 they had to find a new name for their act because of the WGN contract.

On an elevator ride to their first broadcast they overheard a man greet two other men as "Handy Andy" and "Famous Amos." Their search for a new name ended.

The show went coast-to-coast on Aug. 18, 1929, and the Amos and Andy Show soon became the most popular in the country.

Restaurants frequently boosted the volume of their radio sets when the show came on, to satisfy their customers. Motion pictures often were cut at mid-reel so audiences could tune in on the doings of Amos and Andy.

In 1960, with television taking more and more of the audience, Amos and Andy left the air.

Negro actors were chosen in 1950 to portray Amos and Andy in the television version of the radio show.

Correll is survived by his widow, Alyce, and four children. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

UN expected to be asked for help by Sir Douglas-Home

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home planned to ask for international help in the U.N. General Assembly today in getting fair treatment for an estimated 50, 000 British Asians ordered out of Uganda.

His aim, in a 40-minute speech in the assembly's general debate, was to muster support in persuading President Idi Amin to let the expellees take some money out, lift a Nov. 7 deadline for their departure and, if not, withdraw a threat to intern all left in Uganda after that date.

Douglas-Home also intended to urge other countries to re-settle some of the Asians forced out of Uganda — most of them of Indian and Pakistani origin — so as to cut down the number Britain must take in keeping with her pledge to accept them.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has sent an emissary on three trips to Uganda to see Amin to urge him on humanitarian grounds to reconsider his decision to oust the Asians.

Waldheim has also persuaded the assembly to put "Measures to Prevent Terrorism" on its agenda. Secretary of State William P. Rogers has proposed that the assembly call a conference early next year to adopt a convention prescribing prosecution or extradition for captured terrorists.

Waldheim told a reporter he welcomed "positive statements" on the subject made in the general debate. He mentioned those of Rogers on Monday and French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann on Tuesday.

Schumann endorsed Waldheim's initiative because, he said, "it aims to break the merciless chain of violence," and because Waldheim also "intends to grapple with the deepest causes of the problem."

U.S. awaiting reaction to proposal to change world monetary system

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its bold proposal for reshaping the world monetary system on the table, the United States is settling back to await official foreign reaction to its plan.

Most of the finance ministers and central bankers attending the International Monetary Fund's annual meeting with-held substantive comment after Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz sketched the U.S. plan Tuesday.

"Clear and coherent," West Germany said. The British said much the same thing. Canada called it comprehensive. But the Japanese were reported unhappy. And France worked on a reply.

Shultz proposed that countries with balance-of-payments surpluses should be under as much pressure to change their currency values as those in deficit.

The pressure should come from new international economic sanctions, he said, including the right to impose import surcharges against a country with a chronic surplus. Another sanction would be the loss of any right to convert accumulated foreign-currency holdings into reserves of another country.

Japan's delegation, while making no official comment immediately, was said to be sharply opposed to any direct economic sanctions. The Japanese, heavy exporters, now run a sizable surplus in trade with the United States.

Japan also rejected any notion that its currency, the yen, should again be raised in value.

Shultz proposed new flexibility for the monetary system, including a wider range of permissible international values for the dollar. The dollar would be able to swing in value as much as any other currency can.

Other currencies can swing in value by 9 per cent against each other. But the dollar, because it is the centerpiece of the monetary system, is now limited to a total 4.5-per-cent range.

If the U.S. plan is adopted, the dollar would lose its once-special role as the currency by which the monies of other countries are valued.

Instead, Shultz said, all currencies, including the dollar, should be stated in terms of Special Drawing Rights, or "paper gold," now worth $1.08 each.

SDRs are the newly created international reserve asset designed to supplement gold and settle debts between governments. They are bookkeeping entries, with value based only on mutual trust and confidence.

Shultz said gold should be phased out as a reserve asset.

ACAF is involved in health care in this county

The Arkansas Chapter Arthritis Foundation, a member agency of the Hempstead County United Fund is involved in a program of care and education of the more than 1,700 arthritics in Hempstead County. The purpose of the Foundation is to provide care for patients with arthritis while the search for a cure is progressing in the twenty-two Clinical Research Centers across the United States.

The chapter conducts a Home Care Physical Therapy program for patients in Arkansas who have been diagnosed as having rheumatoid arthritis by their family physician and referred to the Arthritis Foundation. After receiving the referral, the Foundation contacts the patient and schedules the first evaluation. The evaluation includes an evaluation of the patient's ability to do normal activities of daily living and to check which joints are involved. This determines the type of program for the patient which includes specific exercises, types of heat, simple splinting and special devices which help the patient to be more independent. Instruction is also given to the family as to the correct procedure for carrying out the program.

After the patient is given the instructions, they are then re-evaluated periodically to find out how they are progressing with the program. Subjective findings such as sleep and morning stiffness are evaluated along with range-of-motion and functional capacity. The exercises are reviewed and revised if needed. At the present time, more than 1,400 patients are involved in this program.

People in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — World chess champion Bobby Fischer says he regrets that American officials didn't make arrangements that would have permitted him to lead the U.S. team at the chess Olympics under way in Skopje, Yugoslavia.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Fischer said it will be virtually impossible for the U.S. team to win the championship without his services and those of grandmasters Bill Lombardy and Larry Evans.

Fischer's attorney, Andrew P. Davis, said, "He was disappointed at not having gone, but the pressures of playing for the world championship and the pressure of time prevented it.

"If they were a little more flexible in their arrangements, they'd say come over and play anyway — but that's not the way Olympic committees do things.

"Bobby feels he was kind of snookered out of doing what he wanted to do."

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican radio says a welcome birthday present for Pope Paul would be more "understanding and affection."

In a broadcast on the pontiff's 75th birthday Tuesday, the Vatican radio said, "It is difficult to be fond of a person so high up, almost always viewed in the halo of superhuman mission which virtually separates him from the people.

"It is easier to respect, honor and applaud than to be fond of and nourish affection for the Pope."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Actress Shirley MacLaine escaped injury when the car in which she was riding to suburban rally on behalf of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern was involved in a minor accident.

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence. "You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer." This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer sired a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged. "Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights. But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will.

What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary" — hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination. But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations.

In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law: It was all too likely to be false.

Finds big Nixon electoral lead

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — NEA's first nationwide survey on the prospective electoral count for the 1972 presidential election shows President Nixon presently holding 462 votes to Sen. George McGovern's 27, with 49 in the doubtful list. It takes 270 to elect.

The survey, conducted by telephone and sampling the judgments of political experts within the many states, is the first of three this year. The last of the series will come late in the campaign. This first check gives Nixon on nine of the 10 most populous states, with only heavily Democratic Massachusetts in McGovern's column. In the 1968 election, Nixon split the 10 evenly with Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Nixon here is given all 11 of the Old South states. Their total of 130 electoral votes is just five short of half of the 270 needed for victory. The McGovern forces believe they have a strong shot at the 26 in Texas, but observers in the state continue to question that judgment.

Also, Arkansas has never gone Republican in modern times, but it is clearly tipped toward Nixon at this stage. The President likewise is awarded all eight Mountain states, four of the five in the Plains tier and four of the five on the Pacific rim.

California, with its prize of 45 votes, is considered a possible pickup for McGovern. He has strong cadres of dedicated workers there. It is a volatile state, and it went only narrowly for Nixon in 1968. But it is widely agreed he is leading there today. Oregon and Washington often are mentioned as McGovern prospects, but NEA's check did not produce supporting evidence. Hawaii, with just four votes, is supposed to be his, but reports from the state say Democrats are so badly divided it must at least be rated doubtful today.

McGovern people think they might get Nevada (three votes) in the Mountain group, yet word from there is that the senator's proposed defense cuts, plus GOP claims that he would slash atomic energy outlays, are hurting him badly.

Nowhere among the eastern and midwestern big states (excepting always Massachusetts) is McGovern ahead today. New York (41), Pennsylvania (27) and Michigan (21) have to be judged salvageable, since Humphrey won them all in 1968. Right now, however, New York is bad news for McGovern, with even parts of New York City described as "murderous" for him. The busing issue and a possible rightward shift make Michigan better Nixon territory than four years ago. Democrats in Pennsylvania are organizing well but McGovern needs a spark to make crucial gains.

New Jersey is strongly Nixon today. Maryland, which went for Humphrey, is the President's now, with Democrats saying the McGovern campaign is in awful shape.

In New England, frequently Democratic Connecticut is borderline, with a good chance McGovern may get it. His Rhode Island situation is so bad no one in either party quite believes it. It is classed as doubtful because its basic Democratic bent is so strong.

Appraisers in Illinois (26 votes) give Nixon roughly a 25-point edge and think it may be widening. They find the ethnic groups, mostly Catholic, markedly alienated from McGovern. One observer sees Nixon a "real solid winner" in Illinois. He leads also in Ohio (25) today, but there the combined labor-Democratic organization effort is coming together and could give the President trouble. He won Ohio narrowly in 1968.

Wisconsin and Minnesota often are claimed for McGovern, but my in-state sources say he is seriously overrated in Wisconsin and, though improving, is still far behind in Minnesota to be given that state now. Missouri is another rising McGovern prospect, but he doesn't have it yet.
